

JOIN US!

The University of Washington SMART Center is part of the Health Services and Resources Administration Autism Intervention Research Network on Behavioral Health (AIR-B) working to improve services for students with autism spectrum disorder and their families.

We are convening a Community Advisory Board (CAB) to help us support our public schools implement Remaking Recess, a recess-based intervention to support the social engagement of school children with autism, and a transition planning intervention called Self-Determined Learning Model of Instruction (SDLMI) to prepare high school students to move from school to adult life. The CAB is focused on diversity and intends to include people who understand what it is like to be in or serve an underrepresented and/or under resourced community.

Read more about Remaking Recess & SDLMI

Community Advisory Board

STARTING NOVEMBER 2020

- 60-90 min mostly-monthly Zoom meetings at your convenience
- $100 for each meeting
- General & special education teachers & paraeducators of children with autism, principals, district staff, parents, advocates, agencies & individuals with autism
- Interested? Questions? Email Kelcey Schmitz, kelcey1@uw.edu, or complete the application

Jill Locke, PhD
Principal Investigator

Kelcey Schmitz, MEd
Family and Community Engagement Director