Learning From and With the School Mental Health Workforce (School Counselors, Psychologists, and Teacher Educators) is Session 2 of the two-part learning series Supporting School Mental Health in the Context of Racial Violence. This learning series is intended for students, families, educators and school mental health professionals who are navigating the impact of racial violence on student mental health. Each 1.5 hour learning session will feature a moderator who will engage advocates, leaders and the school mental health workforce in a conversation that focuses on:

1. Strategies for supporting students' mental health while navigating racial violence (in and out of school);
2. Opportunities for the field to improve its commitment to fostering a workforce ready, able and willing to hold racial violence as a mental health issue;
3. Steps we might take to advance school mental health supports for students experiencing racial violence.
